IF MONEY GETS TIGHT

What $24,000 a year buys a one-truck business instead.

The math on a typical agency retainer, and what you actually need to stay busy.

01

$2,000 a month is $24,000 a year.

A typical agency charges a local business $1,000 to $3,000 a month, often with a 3 to 12 month minimum, based on published agency pricing. Take the middle.

INSTEAD

What $24,000 could cover.

- A used work trailer
- New tools for next season
- A helper's hours through a slow stretch
- A cushion for the month the phone goes quiet

02

You still have to be found.

Cutting marketing to zero is the expensive mistake. A site that works on a phone, an active Google profile and steady reviews keep the phone ringing.

03

What that costs with us.

Website $99.95 a month plus SEO Premier $45.95 a month. That's $1,750.80 a year, $0 setup, cancel anytime.

04

Judge it by the calls.

Whoever you pay, ask what it brought in last month. If they can't tell you, that's the cut to make.

When money gets tight, the phone still has to ring.

We do what agencies charge thousands for, for $99.95 a month.

Jared Kolsun

Co-Founder & CTO

Bright Automations · brightautomations.org

Follow for practical marketing that won't eat your budget.