BEHIND THE BUILD

How a local business goes from a Google listing to a live website.

No homework for the owner, and nobody pays until they've seen their site.

Jared Kolsun · Bright Automations

Swipe

01

We start with what Google already knows.

The business's own Google listing gives us the name, services, hours, photos and reviews. The owner fills in a 2-minute form for the rest.

02

AI drafts the site. Then the real work starts.

Our system drafts the full site from the business's own details. That's the easy part. The checks are what matter.

BEFORE A HUMAN SEES IT

Every build has to pass:

- Every page actually loads
- Phone number is a tap-to-call button
- A working contact form
- Call and form tracking installed
- Business details marked up for Google
- At least 4 town or service-area pages

03

Edits are unlimited. Payment comes last.

The owner reviews it and asks for changes as many times as they want. They only pay once they want it live on Google.

04

Then the monthly report.

Calls, form fills, traffic and what people searched, plus 1 to 3 recommended changes. One tap to approve, and we make them.

A launch isn't the finish line.

It's day one.

Jared Kolsun

Co-Founder & CTO

Bright Automations · brightautomations.org

Follow for behind-the-scenes on building websites that make the phone ring.